Why Should I Buy My
Clothing from Thos.
Hughes & Co?

1st. Because they buy in large quantities, have unequalled facilities for buying, and, therefore, can afford to sell for less than those not having such advantages.

2d. They have a large corps of FIRST-CLASS CUTTERS, and you are more certain to get a good fit there than elsewhere.

3d. They sell only for cash, and they do not charge you anything for losses they would have sustained if they were doing a credit business.

Now is the time to buy, as the

Spring Stock is received, and you can get first choice by calling early.

"DOE MAN MOVIE"
Rev. John Jasper's Great Lecture at Washington—His Famous Theory Proved From the Bible Beyond All Contention.

From the Washington Post, April 30.
Punctuated at 8 o'clock last night the Rev. John Jasper (very black) ascended the stage of Lincoln hall and was introduced to a rather silent audience by Mr. J.
W. Johnson (brown-black). This celebrated Baptist clergyman, who has grown in notoriety with the rapid growth of Jonah's gourd, is about five feet ten inches high, slender and well made, with a round bald head set firmly on strong, square shoulders. His black and glossy forehead slopes abruptly and steeply from the eyebrows which are shaggy, prominent and jutting, above deep-set eyes that, when the preacher gets down to his work, fairly burn with luminous light. His face is overlaid with the advance of age, but his features are quite shapely and strongly marked. A shaggy beard and moustache cover his face. His feet are short but very broad with a high instep. He is dressed in a black cutaway coat and dark trousers, and wears gold rings in his shirt front and a gold watch chain in his vest. His voice is a strong, musical tenor of much power, but in its ordinary tones thick and muffled.
There is a great deal of magnetism about the man; he is thoroughly in earnest, and at a colored camp-meeting would gather thousands of converts at a rate to gladden the soul of Wesley or Whitefield. His style is eminently adapted to the wants of his congregation, and only lacks cultivation to be singularly powerful and effective. He is essentially dramatic, and his descriptive powers are pictorial and of a high degree. He is an unconscious humorist. Withal, he is a logician of no mean rank, and reasons from his premises to his conclusions with a force and directness that only need cultivation to be information and to be convincing weight and influence. Opening his lecture with a reference to an old-fashioned hymn, in which the audience joined, he read the 11th Psalm, and called on Mr. Johnson to pray. Then he arose and said he "would prove that the sun doth stand still, prove it from the Bible." He did not know anything about outside and definitive with God's word which was very boldly inspired by the spirit of God, moved upon by the Holy Ghost and authorized by God's authority to light a lamp for the feet and prepare a guide for the path. He was not a grammarian, and had never been to school in his life, but he was a logician of no mean rank, and he proved his theory from the Bible, and asked God for Jesus Christ's sake to lighten his eyes. He described his conversion, his entrance into the ministry, and his journey to this country, which he brought into this argument.
He had preached by request four times, on each occasion his white hearers increasing in number. Then warning with his subject, and raising equal to the emergency, he plunged into the famous sermon which he carried the name of "Justly over the country." "Ladies and gentlemen," said he, "before proving, as I have formerly do, that the sun doth stand still, I shall go into Egypt extensively, and after devoting my subject will then travel into Canaan and back to the Lord's own land, and the sun gives up in the morning, in the east, what you can see him if you want to, and goes over houses and trees and territories are co-houses till he goes down in the west where he has hastened back again to the starting place. Now the sun has just taken notice of Exodus xiv, 3, and 'cause me for musing over the emigration in Egypt, for I shall not undertake to prove that the sun doth stand still until I get over into Canaan. From the creation until the flood when the Lord drowned everybody but Noah and his family was about four hundred and fifty-six years. Then four hundred years after, when the world had got demoralized with people pretty thick like the Lord took Abraham out of the land of Haran way from his kindred and relations who were idolaters, and after giving him a son he made his mind to try Abraham's faith. It was a so-called of pleasure for Abraham—excuse me for calling him Abraham, his name was Abram, but it comes kinder bad to don't mean it—to look at your Isaac, but the Lord said, 'Abraham, when thou shalt be a hundred years old, what I've been musing about is that thou shalt have a son, and that son shall be called Isaac. Now, if Abram had been a philosopher and hadn't had unbroken confidence he'd have said, 'Lord, if I stick my knife in your Isaac's throat what you give to get another boy of me, what I've been musing about is that thou shalt have a son, and that son shall be called Isaac. Now, if Abram had been a philosopher and hadn't had unbroken confidence he'd have said, 'Lord, if I stick my knife in your Isaac's throat what you give to
